

MR. BOOTH'S FINAL EXIT.

THE GREAT ACTOR ANNOUNCES HIS RETIREMENT FROM THE STAGE.

Death of Miss Emma C. Mayo—Soleless Simpson—Sightseeing—Railway Directors Indicted—Baron Faivis' Recall—New York News.

NEW YORK REPORT,
RICHMOND DAILY TIMES,
MARCH 31, 1891.

Edwin Booth to-day announced his retirement from the stage after this season.

He has ordered his manager to cancel all dates made for him next year. His present engagement in the Brooklyn Academy of Music, which will end on Saturday of this week, will be his farewell one.

It is reported that 5,000 New York public school scholars and teachers are suffering from la grippe. The sick list was never before so large and is daily growing.

FINANCES IN BAD SHAPE.

A report is current that the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago finances were in such bad shape that the syndicate which undertook to finance the company had to provide for the interest on the bonded debt which falls due to-morrow. It is also stated that the syndicate does not buy the four-mortgage bonds outright but simply spends $2,000,000 on $8,000,000 in bonds and $1,400,000 stock. It is asserted by smarties who claim to be posted in the company's affairs that a receiver may be appointed later on.

RAILWAY DIRECTORS INDICTED.

The long-looked-for indictment of the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company as they stood to the tunnel disaster, in which Mrs. Helen Supple and five others lost their lives, was made by the grand jury to-day. The indictment charges the directors of the road with having committed a misdemeanor by running their cars with stove heat contrary to the law. The statute prescribes the penalty for the offense to be either fine or imprisonment, or both. The fine may be from $1 to $200 each, and the imprisonment from one day to one year, but not in the State prison. The directors indicted are Charles E. Clark, now president; Alfred G. Tunt of New Haven; H. Trowbridge of New Haven; William D. Bishop Jr., of New Haven; George A. Nichols, of New Haven; Edward M. Cook, of New Haven; H. Robinson of Hartford; Joseph Park of New York city; Channing M. Depew of New York city; Henry S. Lee of Springfield, Mass.; William Rockefeler of New York city; and Leverett Branson of Hartford. The aggregate wealth of the indicted men is over $200,000,000.

The recall of Baron Faivis and the Italian indignation occasion only amusement here, tempered with the hope that it may put a stop to the horrors of his countrymen now daily dumped into the country by way of the Federal landing stage.

SOLESS SIMPSON SIGHT-SEEING.

Soless Simpson, the great Western sage, spent much of to-day at the Hotel George. Tonight he dined with the members of the Fellowship Club. He will defer his visit to Washington until after his speech at the Free Trade meetinging in Cooper Union on Thursday night. This is expected will be the effect of his life. He has, of course, been interviewed on every topic of contemporaneous human interest. Among other things he says that the Farmers' Alliance will be strong enough to carry ten Southern States and eight Western States in 1892, and thinks that General Weaver, the Iowa greenbacker, is the most apparent candidate of the Alliance for the presidency. Cleveland doesn't come anywhere near the Alliance idea. "We cannot have German, for, and it ought to shame any American, to be obliged to confess it, this country is not even yet ready to elect a Southern man to the Presidency."

MISS EMMA MAYO DEAD.

Miss Emma C. Mayo, grand-niece of General Winfield Scott and a member of the noted Mayo family of Virginia and New Jersey, died suddenly at Elizabeth this morning of pneumonia. She was famed for her works of charity and was very eccentric. Miss Mayo was a sister-in-law of General Archer Gracie of the Confederate army, killed at the battle of the Wilderness.

W. Bourke Croker, who has recently been with Mr. Croker in Europe, will return on the City of New York, due here on the 20th of April. Mr. Croker is expected on the Majestic a week later.

AN IRISH MUSICAL.

The annual "Feis Ceoil Agus Scannachas" of the Gaelic Society of this city, an event in the history of that society, took place this evening at the Lenox Library. The Lycceum, which is one of the finest halls not only in New York but in this country, was filled with the lovers of Irish music. The Gaelic Society has perhaps done more to give Irish nationality tone and respectability than any other society that was ever founded on American soil. The receipts from their entertainments go to purchase Irish books or Irish works of art. Their library at 17 west Twenty-eighth street contains the finest collection of Irish literature and books of Irish reference that can be found anywhere outside the Irish Academy in Dublin.

At their festival of song this evening Chief Justice Joseph F. Daly presided and delivered one of his usual short, but eloquent addresses.

The programme, which was undoubtedly the best selected one the society has presented, included many numbers of familiar Irish ballads, some of which were originally received in the "Bans Coimse," translation of the name of the bard. "Faithie God almighty" was vigorously applauded and she was the object of the applause by repeating the song. Among the other talent were the Misses Carr, Hun King, Alice MacPherson and J. Nicksell, Messrs. Victor Herbert, the violinist, who played for the first time his arrangement of Irish melodies; William Lavin and W. J. Taylor, William Ludwig, the famous baritone, was also on the programme. At the conclusion of the exercises there was dancing in which a goodly number participated.

DR. CROSKY'S FUNERAL.

Dr. Howard Crosby was buried at Woodlawn cemetery this afternoon. There were two funeral services, one at 2 P. M. at No. 119 east Nineteenth street, where he died, and the other at 2:30 P. M. in the Fourth avenue Presbyterian church, where for twenty-eight years Dr. Crosby preached. Both services were conducted by Dr. John Hall of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, and Dr. William A. Taylor of the Freedowm Tabernacle. The funeral arrangements were under the direction of the brothers of the dead clergyman, Professors Henry Crosby and Robert Banister Crosby, who with a sister, Miss Grace Crosby, survived him.

CELEBRATED PAINTERS.

The paintings of Vassili Vereshchagin, the famous Russian artist, will be exhibited at the American Art Galleries, for sale, commencing April 1st.

There are one hundred and twenty canvases in all, the most remarkable being those in the "Crimean War" series.

Vereshchagin's name is known throughout the world. He is held up now as one of the strongest exponents of realism and is an ardent devotee of that school of art. He was present with the Russian armies in their battles against the Turks.

A GOOD FRIEND.

Ex-Judge Horace Russell is another man who has a habit which is, however, all his own. If he reads a book and likes it, he buys many copies and distributes them among his friends. He has always a number of copies, it has been pointed out, in his car and in his office.

With some such this turn of mind might engender consequences frightful to think of, but when Mr. Russell is pleased with a work in literature it is rarely to be good.

TO MARY MISS GREENLEY.

The Rev. Frank Montrose Clendenin, rector of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal church, Westerville, will marry Mary Gabrielle Greenley, daughter of Horace Greenley, in a few weeks.

Dr. Clendenin is the son of George Clendenin, of Washington. He graduated at the Columbian University of Washington and at the Princeton Theological Seminary, and was appointed pastor of the Presbyterian church at Nashville, Tenn., in 1880. A year later he left the Presbyterians and joined the Protestant Episcopal church. He was successively rector of St. George's church, Belleville, Ill., and Grace church, Cleveland, Ohio. In May, 1887, he was called to St. Peter's, Westerville, next to Trinity, the oldest Protestant Episcopal church in the United States.

He is about five feet eleven inches of slim build and dark complexion. He is a finished pulpit orator and a successful church worker.

LETTERS TO CALVIN BRICE.

Mr. Ernest Grossbeck and Mr. Marion J. Vendry gave a dinner at the Manchester Club this morning to Hon. Calvin S. Brice. The center of the banquet table was a representation of the Capitol building at Washington, in recognition of Mr. Brice's recent election to the United States Senate. Among the guests were the Hon. Hugh J. Grant, R. T. Wilson, General Samuel Thomas, John H. Imman, S. J. Harriet, Fred T. Adams, Ex-Norton, Logan C. Murray, George F. Baker, John C. Calhoun and J. F. O'Shaughnessy.

WALL STREET ECHOES.

President Ingalls announces his early removal to Cincinnati to New York that he may be in a better position to attract capital to the South. He says it is undeniably true that the country traversed by his road will become as populous and as prosperous as any part of Pennsylvania now is. The three items of coal, iron and timber considered, there is a basis of latent wealth in the country drained by the Chesapeake and Ohio and its branches that will furnish a solid foundation for a large number of big cities, as well as for a great many prosperous industrial towns, with populations of from 5,000 to 15,000 and 20,000 each. When to these advantages are added the great agricultural resources of the two States, the petroleum, natural gas, the fire-clays and all the other wealth-creating resources, it can be readily seen, he says, that there is practically no limit to the healthy advancement of the entire country from Newport News to Cincinnati.

The Board says that the last week has been one of the busiest in the industrial advancement of the South ever known. Among the leading projects reported is a $1,500,000 company being organized in New York to establish cottonseed oil refineries in the South to build soap products throughout the South, using cottonseed products a $100,000 brick company in Texas to make 150,000 bricks a day, and a cooperative town company in Tennessee, with a capitalization of $10,000,000.

The February statement of the Norfolk and Western for 1890 shows Gross $625,455 1890, $747,227 increase, $52,107. Operating expenses, 1890, $456,156 1890, $419,215 increase, $36,937 Net, 1890, $150,379 1890, $155,108 increase, $15,730. Two months 1890, $357,529 1890, $417,576 increase, $59,056.

Earnings of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia for the third week in March, 1891, were $152,344 1890, $184,516 decrease, $11,205. Three weeks in March, 1891, $389,827 1890, $417,436 decrease, $27,608.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

Miss Isabelle de Pay Foote, daughter of the late Isabelle Foote, will be married to Mr. Homer Agnew on the afternoon of April 14th at the Hotel Brunswick. Mrs. Foote was Miss Sarah Fitz Randolph de Pay of Virginia. The bride will wear a Felix gown, trimmed with lace, and the wedding will be followed by a grand reception at the Hotel Brunswick.

Mrs. Cleveland recently refused a check for $200 sent her by an editor to write three articles on her life in the White House. Another offer of $1,000 for two articles on her college life have met with a similar fate, only a fortnight ago.

A lad of Julian Hawthorne, the son of the great novelist, author and newspaper writer, is eighteen months. He owns a children's farm on Long Island, where he indulges his propensity for roosters and hens, and from which he makes about sum in selling eggs and poultry.

The report of the New York State Board of Health for the month of February, just issued, shows that there were 8,700 deaths in this State during that period. Of the total New York died with 3,025, and the mortality District cities with 2,050.

There is no reputation more delicate than that of a bank. Recent experiences have shown that once assailed it is almost certainly lost.
